

EDLounge RPL Policy & Procedure

Introduction

EDLounge recognises that learning may take place in a wide variety of contexts, including via formal taught courses, self-directed study and professional or life experiences. The Recognition of Prior Learning Policy is designed to facilitate formal recognition of learning undertaken elsewhere, supporting our institutional mission to widen participation and promote equality and diversity. The overall aim of the Policy is to provide a framework within which decisions about Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) are valid, consistent, timely and fair

Definitions

Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) is the overarching term used for the award of credit on the basis of demonstrated learning that has occurred at some time in the past either through attending formal courses (prior certificated learning) or through paid or unpaid work, self-directed learning or other life experiences (prior experiential learning). The theme common to both prior certificated learning and prior experiential learning is that learning, and not just the experience of the activities alone, is being recognised and awarded credit.

Recognition of Prior Certificated Learning (RPCL) is the process for assessing, recognising and awarding credit for learning that has been previously accredited, formally recognised or certificated through a higher education institution or other higher education / training provider.

Recognition of Prior Experiential Learning (RPEL) is the process for assessing, recognising and/or awarding credit for learning that has been achieved through experience and/or training that has not been formally assessed.

Principles

1. Credit may be given for prior learning where the level, standard, content, relevance and currency of that learning is appropriate to a particular programme of study. Credit may be awarded via RPL for:
 - a) individual modules (noting that RPL can only be awarded for whole modules), where the applicant or student can demonstrate that they meet the assessment requirements for the module through knowledge, understanding and/or skills that they already possess as a result of prior learning and/or
2. Applicants or students awarded credit against modules or levels of study are exempt from the requirement to study those modules or levels as part of their programme of study.
3. The maximum amount of credit that can be awarded via RPL is specified within the framework and standards for the relevant type of qualification. Any course-specific variations to these regulations must be identified and approved at the point of course validation or re-approval and recorded on the definitive course record (for example, some qualifications may exclude or limit the use of RPL due to Professional, Statutory and Regulatory Body (PSRB) requirements).
4. The period of time for which prior learning remains valid and worthy of credit is discipline-specific. Decisions on the 'shelf-life' of prior learning must be made at course level. Normally, learning should have occurred within the past five years.
5. Course documentation (including the definitive course record) must be explicit in stating where there are Professional, Statutory and Regulatory Bodies (PSRB) requirements that might affect an applicant or student's ability to make a RPL claim for credit against certain modules or levels of study.
6. The RPL assessment process must be applied consistently in accordance with these principles and any specific RPL requirements of individual courses, as determined at validation.

Applying for RPL

7. Applicants should normally apply for RPL as part of the admissions process. Potential applicants who may be eligible for RPL should be made aware of the opportunities available, and associated timescales, as part of the recruitment and admissions process. RPL may be awarded at other points during a student's period of study at the discretion of the relevant Assessment Board
8. Applicants and students should be encouraged to submit RPL applications in a timely manner, to enable RPL decisions to be made prior to the commencement of the element(s) of the course for which they are seeking exemption. This is particularly important for applicants who are seeking exemption from an entire level of study as part of the admissions process, so that their application can be considered and approved before they commence their studies at the appropriate level. Where applicants or students are seeking exemption for individual module(s), they should attend and submit any appropriate assessment for those elements of their course for which RPL is being sought while they await the outcome of their RPL application.
9. It is the responsibility of applicants / students to apply for RPL, using the Application for Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) form. Information and guidance on applying for RPL (both written and verbal) will clearly outline the process for making an application, the evidence that is required to support applications, and the criteria against which decisions will be made. Receipt of submitted RPL applications will be formally acknowledged within ten working days, and the applicant / student will be notified of anticipated timescales for reaching a decision on their application and the means by which they will be informed of the outcome.
10. EDLounge has a nominated RPL adviser who is responsible for supporting applicants and students in making RPL claims, liaising with relevant members of the course team where necessary for subject-specific advice. Guidance will be provided to RPL advisers on their role and responsibilities, which should include:
 - a) providing information and guidance to applicants and students on the RPL process
 - b) clarifying what is required as part of the application, including what will be considered suitable evidence of prior learning (in the case of RPEL, this should involve advising the applicant or student on the compilation of a portfolio of evidence or other appropriate form of assessment as outlined in paragraph 21)
 - c) supporting the applicant or student in completing and submitting the RPL application form and the supporting evidence.

Evidencing prior learning

11. Evidence of prior certificated learning should include:
 - a) copies of relevant certificates
 - b) course documentation evidencing content, learning outcomes and level of study
 - c) details of module results (for example via an academic transcript or equivalent).
12. Evidence of prior experiential learning should include:
 - a) a systematic personal reflection on relevant learning experiences and how these have furthered their understanding of the relevant subject area
 - b) clear statements about the learning achieved through these experiences and how this relates to the learning outcomes for the relevant element(s) of the EDLounge course for which they are seeking exemption
 - c) evidence to support these statements, which might include:

- confirmation of job responsibilities and job description by a line-manager
- a record of achievements
- details of specialist training / skills
- contact details of referees who can comment on the applicant's achievements
- other documentation to demonstrate the learning outcomes achieved.

13. Evidence of prior experiential learning is usually submitted via a portfolio, although alternative forms of assessment may also be employed to suit the particular needs of individual courses (including structured interviews, presentations, performances or other assessment tasks). Interviews, presentations or performances should be recorded so that there is a reproducible record evidencing the demonstration of prior learning.

Assessing prior learning

14. Decisions regarding RPL are a matter of academic judgement and may be influenced by the requirements of any relevant PSRBs. The decision-making process and outcomes should be transparent and demonstrably rigorous and fair.

15. Assessment and approval of RPL applications will be conducted by the Lead IQA and Centre Manager who have authority to make decisions on RPL and to award the relevant credit, with the outcomes reported to the next full meeting of the Assessment Board for information. All documentation relating to RPL applications and decisions should be made available for subsequent external scrutiny.

16. Credit can be awarded for prior learning where it is satisfied that the applicant or student has demonstrated achievement of the intended learning outcomes for the relevant element(s) of the course for which they are seeking exemption, and is adequately prepared to complete the remaining elements of the course. It is recognised that for the RPL in relation to a large amount of credit (for example an entire level of study), mapping against module learning outcomes can be a barrier rather than an enabler of RPL, and therefore mapping against course level learning outcomes and/or level descriptors may provide a more appropriate and flexible form of assessment.

17. In making judgements, claims for RPL will be evaluated against the following criteria:

Relevance	Is there an appropriate match between the evidence presented and the prior learning that the applicant or student is seeking to demonstrate? Is the prior learning specific? Can it be identified and categorised? Was the learning in a context understood by the learner?
Sufficiency	Is there sufficient evidence to demonstrate full achievement of the learning claimed?
Authenticity	Is the evidence valid and reliable? Does it clearly relate to the applicant or student's own efforts and achievements?

Currency	Does the evidence relate to current learning? Does it meet course validation and/or PSRB time limits in terms of currency of prior learning?
Level	Is the prior learning at a level that is at least equivalent to the relevant element of the programme of study for which the applicant or student is seeking exemption?

Notification of outcomes

18. Applicants / students should be notified of the outcome of their RPL application (including the level and volume of credit being awarded) via a letter from the Centre Manager, in accordance with timescales communicated to the applicant or student when receipt of their application was formally acknowledged (see paragraph 17). Where the application is rejected (in full or in part), the outcome letter should include feedback on the reasons for this decision and guidance on obtaining the relevant credit within their programme of study. The feedback should also highlight their right to make a complaint about the decision in accordance with paragraph 28 below.

Complaints about RPL decisions

19. A complaint about an RPL decision may only be made on the grounds that (i) correct procedure was not followed which undermined the validity of the decision and/or (ii) prejudice or bias on the part of the Centre Manager affected the decision. Complaints concerning the judgement of the Centre Manager and/or complaints based upon the informal assessment of the RPL application by members of academic staff will not normally be considered, as these are not deemed as valid grounds for complaint.
20. A complaint should be made in writing to the Office Manager within fifteen working days of notification of the outcome of the RPL application, in accordance with the procedures outlined in the Student Complaints Procedure.

Monitoring and evaluation

EDLounge will monitor and evaluate the effectiveness of the Recognition of Prior Learning Policy and reflect upon the outcomes for enhancement purposes. The Quality Manager will undertake periodic audits of RPL documentation and will seek feedback on the RPL process from RPL advisers. Outcomes will be reported to the Quality Committee. The purpose of these audits will be to ensure that decisions regarding RPL are valid, reliable and consistent across the institution, in accordance with the requirements of this Policy.
